Subject: RE: Parkersburg, WV

Some suggested changes:

2nd paragraph:

Based on CTEH collected data, levels of PM_{2.5} and PM₁₀ seem to be decreasing from the first recorded readings (10/23) to date. No air sampling data has been made available. Below are the trends in the real-time air monitoring. EPA R3 has also collected air monitoring data and will share it following QA/QC procedures.

Next to last paragraph:

Over the past couple of days, the combustion is becoming less efficient and less energetic. The smoke is hugging the ground and there seems to be more particulate matter in the air around the fire site. The spikes last longer and are more frequent. The hazard going forward may be greater until the fire is extinguished. So while the shelter in place and avoidance advice over a broad area provided by Woods County Health and EPA was appropriate, additional environmental data is needed to evaluate areas closer to the fire until it is extinguished to ensure that a shelter-in-place declaration is still the most appropriate and health protective action.

Data Limitations and Uncertainty section should be added.
